The Story of the Solemnity of All Saints

The earliest certain observance of a feast in honor of all the saints is an early fourth-century commemoration of "all the martyrs." In the early seventh century, after successive waves of invaders plundered the catacombs, Pope Boniface IV gathered up some 28 wagon-loads of bones and reinterred them beneath the Pantheon, a Roman temple dedicated to all the gods. The pope rededicated the shrine as a Christian church. According to Venerable Bede, the pope intended "that the memory of all the saints might in the future be honored in the place which had formerly been dedicated to the worship not of gods but of demons" (On the Calculation of Time).

But the rededication of the Pantheon, like the earlier commemoration of all the martyrs, occurred in May. Many Eastern Churches still honor all the saints in the spring, either during the Easter season or immediately after Pentecost. How the Western Church came to celebrate this feast, now recognized as a solemnity, in November is a puzzle to historians. The Anglo-Saxon theologian Alcuin observed the feast on November 1 in 800, as did his friend Arno, Bishop of Salzburg. Rome finally adopted that date in the ninth century.

This feast first honored martyrs.

Later, when Christians were free to worship according to their consciences, the Church acknowledged other paths to sanctity. In the early centuries the only criterion was popular acclaim, even when the bishop's approval became the final step in placing a commemoration on the calendar. The first papal canonization occurred in 993; the lengthy process now required to prove extraordinary sanctity took form in the last 500 years. Today's feast honors the obscure as well as the famous—the saints each of us have known.

La historia de la solemnidad de todos los santos

La observancia más temprana de una fiesta en honor de todos los santos es una conmemoración de principios del siglo IV de "todos los mártires".

A principios del siglo VII, después de que sucesivas oleadas de invasores saquearan las catacumbas, el Papa Bonifacio IV recogió unos 28 carros llenos de huesos y los enterró bajo el Panteón, un templo romano dedicado a todos los dioses. El Papa volvió a dedicar el santuario como una iglesia cristiana. Según el Venerable Beda, el Papa pretendía "que la memoria de todos los santos sea honrada en el futuro en el lugar que antes se había dedicado al culto no a los dioses sino a los demonios" (Sobre el cálculo del tiempo).

Pero la nueva dedicación del Panteón, como la anterior conmemoración de todos los mártires, se produjo en mayo. Muchas iglesias orientales todavía honran a todos los santos en la primavera, ya sea durante la temporada de Pascua o inmediatamente después de Pentecostés.

Cómo llegó la Iglesia occidental a celebrar esta fiesta, ahora reconocida como una solemnidad, en noviembre es un enigma para los historiadores. El teólogo anglosajón Alcuin celebró la fiesta el 1 de noviembre de 800, al igual que su amigo Arno, obispo de Salzburgo. Roma finalmente adoptó esa fecha en el siglo IX.

Esta fiesta honró primero a los mártires. Más tarde, cuando los cristianos fueron libres de adorar de acuerdo con su conciencia, la Iglesia reconoció otros caminos hacia la santidad. En los primeros siglos, el único criterio era la aclamación popular, incluso cuando la aprobación del obispo se convirtió en el paso final para colocar una conmemoración en el calendario. La primera canonización papal ocurrió en 993; el largo proceso que ahora se requiere para demostrar una santidad extraordinaria tomó forma en los últimos 500 años. La fiesta de hoy honra tanto a los oscuros como a los famosos: los santos que cada uno de nosotros ha conocido.
